Wall Street Better Again
How Publicity Hurts
Used Cars for Europe

Current Events
By Arthur Brisbane

STOCKS CRIPPLED upward a little further yesterday. Speculators are getting over the dreadful thoughts that paying a few hundreds of millions to soldiers may ruin the United States—a country that so easily found thousands of millions for patriotic grafters.

Washington predicts that Mr. Coolidge will sign the tax bill. That will cheer everybody in Wall Street except the financial dooms that consider it most un-American and dangerous to let the people know how much income tax they have been paying.

IF INCOME TAX returns were made public, it is clear that many prosperous gentlemen would be considerably worried. Perhaps they are afraid to have the public know how generous and conscientious they are and how fully they pay their income tax.

AT ALL EVENTS, you know that they are worried and that they object to publicity when you find so many of them anxious to see the proposed tax bill changed, sacrificing the great tax saving that it would give them, rather than have the publicity clause go through.

WHEN THE automobile arrived, old-fashioned carriages, victorias, broughams, etc., became worthless here, and a market was found for them in South America, where they did not give up horses and carriages as easily.

Lately the American problem has been "How to get rid of second-hand automobiles." Europe, it seems, will help solve that problem.

A COMPANY, formed to ship second-hand cars to Europe, sends over largesse in the applied. Money is not as plentiful there as it is here. The "used car," at a whitened down price, is attractive.

Loading of used cars abroad will be a good thing for Europe, which needs economy, and a good thing for the United States, where millions need "a bigger or better car."

PROHIBITION in America profits, especially in Scotland and the British West Indies. The Lord Chief Justice of the Bahamas, Sir Evelyn Northon, arrives with the information that Bahama citizens on Hog Island intend to supply the United States demand for rum whiskey.

Englishmen don't care for it, they like smoky Scotch. Nevertheless they have built on Hog Island a distillery that will turn out 500 gallons of rum whiskey an hour. They will sell it on English soil, and it will be the job of the law-abiding American bootleggers to put it within reach of whiskey-drinking Americans.

Washington, May 23.—The first move to modify the four-day of bonus has made today, when Senator Walsh, Massachusetts, proposed an amendment substituting cash payments for insurance on the same per diem basis now contained in the bill. He estimated the government would save $1,000,000,000 if the change was approved.

SOX CLASH WITH GIVES UP CAREER TO MARRY INDIANS

By NICK FLATLEY.
The ambition for a musical career that Miss Marie Prescilla Maynard of New York City fostered from childhood was forgotten when she met William Anagnostis, cotton broker and Greek consul in Boston while she was a student at New England Conservatory of Music.

The couple are to be married early in the coming Summer in New York. They met at the Copley-Plaza a year ago at a tea party, soon after Miss Maynard took up her studies. A few weeks later she decided to give up her studies to become the bride of Consul Anagnostis. She went to New York and informed her relatives of her engagement.

Miss Maynard is now visiting at the Copley-Plaza. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Almaraz B. Maynard of No. 1028 Park avenue, New York City.

Consul Anagnostis came to America twenty years ago on business, making his home here ever since. Every year he returns to Alexandria for a visit of a few weeks in compliance with a promise he made his mother when he left the old country.

After the wedding the couple will make their residence at Mr. Anagnostis's summer home at Man-chester-by-the-Sea. Their winter home will be in Boston.

Armed Posse Scours Countryside for the Murder of Maine School Teacher

Amherst, Me., May 23.—Hancock County officials today found a slayer which it is believed was involved in the shooting of Miss Louise Green. An early arrest is expected. Officers declined to say anything pending further investigation.

Bangor, Me., May 23.—The brutal slaying of pretty Louise Green, nineteen-year-old Amherst school teacher, has turned the entire town into a community of unofficial deputy sheriffs and man-hunters.

For miles around, that town-attended ten miles from Bangor—was armed posse, each armed man uttering threats of vengeance, is searching the countryside. Many of the man-hunters promise to track their quarry.

The brutal killer who seized the girl on the lonely main road to Amherst village, beat her and riddled her body with bullets, stripped the rings from her fingers, and then buried the body in a shallow, pasture grave, will fare ill if he falls into the hands of these volunteer searchers.

The discovery of Miss Green's body in a shallow, rustic, scooped grave has furnished Maine with a most baffling murder mystery.

The girl disappeared early Wednesday evening. When her body was uncovered by a posse scouring the countryside for her, the brand of the young woman was found riddled with lead-bullets, and it was evident that she was murdered after a struggle.

It will require an autopsy to determine whether or not the victim was attacked before she was slain. As yet there is no suspicion attached to anyone in the neighborhood of the crime, but Amherst is a sparsely settled community and the police are endeavoring to locate the lone life who lived there.

Miss Green's home was in Winter Harbor, but two years ago she went to Amherst to teach the village school. She made her home with Mrs. George Williams, who lives on the outskirts of the town.

On Wednesday evening about 8 o'clock, the teacher told Mrs. Williams she was going to the town post-office for her mail. She left 12½ house and this is the last seen of her alive.

When she did not return home Wednesday evening, Mrs. Williams retired without becoming alarmed. There is another school teacher in Amherst and Mrs. Williams said she was sure she was not the one.

Master's Report, Filed in Supreme Court, Exonerates the Head of Brokerage House

Henry V. Greene of the H. V. Greene Company and the Commercial and Mutual Finance Corporations was exonerated today of intent to injure or defraud anybody in a report filed in the Supreme Court by Arthur Black, special master.

Master Black was appointed by the court to hear and determine facts in connection with litigation of the Greene Company and the Commercial and Mutual Finance Corporations.

Henry V. Greene, in 1917, with borrowed money, organized and reorganized Commercial Finance Corporation. At that time he was about twenty-nine years old. He had had no slight experience in business, no knowledge of the handling of investments or other financial matters, and no funds. The authorized capital stock of the corporation was $2,000,000, later increased to over $5,000,000. He agreed to sell all the preferred stock to the public, and in return for that agreement all the common stock was issued to him.

He then introduced the H. V. Greene Company, and assigned to it the contract to sell the Commercial preferred stock, retaining for himself, however, the common stock which had been issued to him. For this assignment he received a sum continued on Page 16, Column 3.

Bold Thieves Jack Up Flivver and Steal Tires

J. H. Keating can drive his flivver with the best of them. But not today.

Keating was tripping, down the steps to front of his home, No. 132 Larch road, Cambridge, today, prepared to hop into the flivver and spin away. The flivver had been in the gutter all night—roasting.

But Keating got a shock. The flivver wasn't resting any more. It was elevated somewhat into the air at the rear. Both rear tires had pins were gone.

Keating had to say it, but he believes the night air made some one drowsy.

Just as the shades of night were falling, several members of the posse, wearing a few minutes' notice, were in the vicinity of the flivver, and saw a mound of truthfully.

The mound had taken by exact time in the shade of the flivver. The mound was only a few inches deep and a portion of the mound was above the surface of the flivver. It was covered over by the flivver's wheels.

When the flivver was started, the mound was discovered. The mound was only a few inches deep and a portion of the mound was above the surface of the flivver. It was covered over by the flivver's wheels.

DEWEES CLEARK'S NOTES HELPED TRUST CO.

George M. Bush, former treasurer of the defunct Commercial Trust Company, testifying at the trial of Max Mitchell, president of the concern, in Suffolk County Superior Court, today denied that numerous notes signed by various clerks and employees of the bank were for the benefit of the bank.

Attorney Michael Sullivan, counsel for Mitchell, grilled Bush all morning in cross-examination in an attempt to show that no money had actually been removed from the bank when the various notes were given and the amounts of the notes credited to the account of Mitchell.

It was brought out in the cross-examination of Bush that on numerous occasions the account of Mitchell was short large amounts on the day the notes were given and loans made. It was also brought out that the amount of the notes generally wiped out the overdrafts charged against Mitchell's account. But Bush would not admit that it was for the benefit of the bank.

Asked if it was not desirable for a bank to have its overdrafts as small as possible, Rich admitted that was so. Attorney Sullivan then asked him if one particular loan of some $25,000 didn't care for an overdraft of $25,000 charged to Mitchell's account at one time. He admitted that it did. He was asked if there was any other loan from the bank the day that transaction took place and admitted that it was all a paper transaction.

According to the testimony of Rich, the cross-examination, a large number of the employees of the bank gave notes ranging from $10,000 to $25,000. Rich admitted that he was of the opinion that the notes were for the benefit of the bank and that the bank was just poor people who had no money.

Sturges in Italy on Six Weeks' Tour of Europe, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN

MRS. ROGER F. STURGES of Commonwealth avenue and her two daughters, the Misses Suzanne and Anita Sturges, recently arrived in Italy on board the Conte Verde.

They plan to remain abroad for six weeks, their itinerary including travels through Italy, France and England. Not a little of their time will be spent in Paris, always a popular stopping-point for Americans visiting the Continent.

Miss Suzanne has for several years proved a most efficient stage manager of the Vincent Club shows. She is of the decided brunette type, her snappy dress sense dominating her ability to direct the staging of any production very successfully.

This Spring Miss Sturges added further to her travels by collaborating with Mrs. Walter Telford, Jr. (Path Skinkin) in the writing of "Wake Up!" presented early in April by the Vincentites.

MISS NANCY YOSE has marshalled together a group of sister-buds who will serve tea following the benefit reading and musicale which will be held on Tuesday afternoon at Algonquin Hall, Wellesley College.

Miss Abbie Fawcett Brown, Miss Florence Converse and Mr. Joseph Auslander, all important figures in the literary world, will read their new poetic works. Miss Ida Brad, who needs no introduction to music-lovers, will play compositions based directly on the poetry.

Tea will be served in the cloisters, and assisting Miss Yose will be the Misses Hannah Hallowell, Barbara Endicott, Katherine Gray and Elizabeth Hamilton. Mrs. George Sargent Burgess, Mrs. Hamilton C. Macdonald and Mrs. Harry Leighton Rollins comprise the committee in charge. Tickets may be secured at one dollar either from them or at Herricks, and also at Wellesley Inn.

MR. AND MRS. J. KENNETH HOWARD of Beacon street have been supervising with keen interest the remodeling of the old Webster estate at South's Point, Manchester.

The Howards purchased the place, which stands high on the hill, and work on it was begun last Fall. The interior has been extensively remodeled, though the outside remains much the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard—who was formerly Miss Ruth Glavin—will occupy the house this Summer. Mrs. Howard's sister, Miss Hope Gorton, is still abroad, it is believed.

Society Notes

MRS. EDWARD CUNNINGHAM SE of the Hotel Duane, who sailed abroad some time ago, is now in Paris.

Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and her son, J. Nicholas Brown, of Providence, paid another of their frequent visits to Boston earlier in the week.

Many society folk are planning to attend the "Calico Ball" being staged tonight at Brattle Hall, Cambridge, to benefit the Yankee Devotion Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm B. Stone of Brookline will spend the Summer in Marblehead at "Dunbar's Point." They have taken "Dunbar," the Dane estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis B. McGee will shortly open their Newport estate.

Among this week's arrivals on the North Shore is Gordon Dyer, whose place is at Beverly Farms.

MAN WHO ALWAYS GOT UP AT 4 DIES AT 110

San Diego, Cal., May 22.—James M. La Cruz Pipo, said to be 110, is dead at the Congole Indian Reservation, according to word received here. One of his two sons and Juan never are flesh of domestic animals or vegetables, such as grown by white men. He always arose at 4:30 a. m. and took a bath in a cold stream.

HEADLINE IS BASED ON WOMAN'S STORY

On Wednesday, May 21, the Boston American published a story relating to the marital difficulties between Howard A. Smith and his wife Martha J. Smith, containing an interview with Mrs. Smith.

In the headlines over such interview, the statement was made that the other man in the triangle then refused to carry out his promise to wed her. This statement is based entirely upon the allegations of Mrs. Smith, and not from any evidence within the knowledge of the paper.

SLIGHT FROST NIPS MARKET GARDENS

Main Damage Is Believed to Have Affected the Crops Only in Low Areas

Market gardeners in suburbs of Boston and throughout the interior of New England woke today to find frost had visited their farms during the night.

In Lexington ground temperatures below the freezing point were claimed. Connecticut Valley foliose growers fear some damage may have been done their young plants. The main damage, however, is confined to crops on the very low lands, so the actual loss will be slight.

Even temperatures prevail clear across the country. While Boston reported a temperature of 54 degrees at 5 a. m., cities on a line westward clear to the Pacific coast show temperatures within a few degrees of the local thermometer.

Generally fair weather is expected throughout the day but will be followed Saturday by unsettled conditions with probable showers. With slowly rising mercury in the south, heavy rain is promised.

At noon today the temperature had risen three degrees to 58 and gave evidence of mounting several notches further.

WARN COOLIDGE NOT TO HEED MELLON

Coolidge Told by G. O. P. Chiefs Tax Bill Will Be Passed Over

Washington, May 23 (I.N.S.).—President Coolidge was warned today by Republican leaders in Congress that if he follows the advice of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and vetoes the new tax reduction bill it will be passed over his veto.

As was the bonus—and the party will reap a political whirlwind in the forthcoming campaign.

A quiet pool of both Houses, conducted by leaders who are worried, has shown that the chances for either the Senate or the House to sustain a presidential veto are virtually nil.

The Republican leaders who are advising the President to sign the tax bill do not pretend that it is perfect or that it is necessarily of a kind of a bill they would have put through had they possessed sufficient working majority in Congress to enact their own views. The contention is that the bill as written represents the best bill obtainable in this Congress—which still has a year to sit—and that unless the present bill becomes law then will at least.

BROTHER TELLS OF RECEIVING HOFFMAN GUN

Declares Bauer Murder Defendant, Claiming Fear of a

New York, May 23 (I.N.S.).—Harry Hoffman's brother, Albert, took the stand as a state witness today when trial of the motion picture operator for the murder of Mrs. Maud A. Bauer in Staten Island was resumed.

Albert Hoffman, who lives in the Bronx, smiled encouragingly at his brother, and then on direct examination related how Harry had sent him the weapon which the state charges was the murder pistol.

On March 29, four days after the murder, Albert said his brother told him by telephone that he was sending him a package. Albert received the package March 31, he said, and found therein a 10-calibre automatic pistol, and a note which read:

"Hold this and keep it in a safe place. If you hear of my getting into trouble give it to my attorney."

SAID HE WAS AFRAID

That same day the witness testified he met his brother and answered in the affirmative a question whether he received the package.

"Keep it for me," Albert said his brother told him, "and if the police question you, say you received it in Boston."

"Harry told me," the witness said, "that he was afraid the police would frame him because he had a Ford sedan answering the description of the slayer and the fact that the murder was committed on his day off."

"I asked him to tell me, truly, if he was guilty of the Bauer murder."

"Albert," he said, "I am absolutely innocent. I swear it. I know no more about it than I have read in the papers, and I'm afraid."

GIRL POINTS AT HOFFMAN.

"Barbara," said Dist. Atty. Fach, "look. Do you see that man anywhere in the courtroom?"

"Yes, there he is," replied the girl without a moment's hesitation, at the same time lifting her arms and pointing to Hoffman.

Asked how she knew Hoffmann as the driver of the sedan, she replied:

"I can tell by his eyes, his complexion and his hair."

You Can't Fool This Machine With Bad Money

New York, May 23.—A mechanical slot machine for changing dimes, quarters and half dollars has been adopted by the Interborough Transit Company to replace the 1,200 persons now occupying change booths at the entrances.

An unofficial test showed that the machines could change the larger coins quicker than human hands, according to James S. Doyle, assistant general manager of the company and the inventor of the machine, which acts as a counterfeit money detector, as had coins are held and no change dropped.

No provision has been made to change paper money or to obtain a five cent piece for five pennies.

NEW BEDFORD MAYOR BANS "THREE WEEKS"

Remington, after being given a private showing of the moving picture, "Three Weeks," refused permission for its public presentation, and threatened the revocation of the licenses of the local string of theatres that are interested, if they disregard his injunction.

Filibuster Still Holds Up Funds
Providence, May 23.—Prominent financiers of this city have guaranteed the expenses of Rhode Island State College until graduation day in the event of the further discontinuance of State support resulting from the Democratic filibuster in the Senate.

The forty members of the senior class eligible for diplomas will thus be enabled to carry on their work until June 29, the closing day.

Before accepting the proffers of wealthy friends of the college, however, the trustees, all of whom are believed to be Republican, will appeal directly to Rhode Island's Democratic Governor, William S. Flynn.

COOLIDGE COLD WORSE; GAS 'CURE' FAILS

Forced to Cancel Engagement; Absent From Garden Party

Washington, May 23.—President Coolidge's bronchial cold not only has refused to yield to treatment as expected but has grown worse with the result that he canceled most of his engagements and found himself unable to join Mrs. Coolidge in receiving at the annual of the White House garden party.

After lunch, he took a number of the electric gas treatments at the White House, but finding it did not loosen up the cold as he expected it to do, he abandoned the gas and to see Mrs. Coolidge in receiving the nearly 500 garden party guests.

White House officials were hopeful that Mr. Coolidge could resume his full round of work by tomorrow.

Wife of Wizard

MRS. HOWARD THURSTON

Wife of "Magic King," who accompanied him as guest of Boston American, in his tour of charitable institutions where kiddies are entertained by marvellous feats.

420 BOYS TRY THURSTON'S STUNTS

Four hundred and twenty of the liveliest boys in Boston, who make their home at the House of the Angel Guardian, Jamaica Plain, were made supremely happy by a visit of Howard Thurston, famous magician. He entertained the kiddies as guest of the Boston American.

The result of Thurston's visit is this wonderful institution has 420 amateur, single-hand, performers within the confines of the House today "doing their stuff" in spare time.

GREETED BY BAND.

When the musician accompanied by Mrs. Thurston, stepped into the dining hall of the House the 34 young musicians who comprise the House of Angel Guardian band greeted them with a military march that proved what a peppy organization these kids form.

The first stunt of the "King of Magic" was finding 400 pennies in the nose of "Red," one of the youngsters in the audience. There was a hilarious scramble for these as Mr. Thurston threw them to the boys.

RABBIT UNDER COAT.

Later the wizard found a little rabbit under the coat collar of Brother Gerald and a goose under Father Patrick O'Connor's coat.

For an hour happiness reigned supreme. The boys laughed and shouted until nearly hoarse. The climax came when Pat, another of the boys, tried to hold nearly a basket of eggs that Mr. Thurston took from a magic hat.

Of course Pat dropped several dozen to the great delight of the others. Three lasty cheers, led by Father Dominic Hook, the chaplain, were given Mr. Thurston as he was leaving.

CRAPSEY FEARS FOR CHRISTIAN CHURCH

New York, May 23.—The Christian Church is doomed unless it abandons the "so-called fundamentalist" theology and goes back to the fundamental teachings of Jesus, said Dr. Algernon Crapsey of Rochester, N. Y., taking part in the modernist-fundamentalist controversy.

Dr. Crapsey was convicted and expelled for heresy from a Rochester pastorate of the Protestant Episcopal Church in 1895.

Included in the charges against Dr. Crapsey was his denial of the virgin birth of Jesus Christ by the assertion that Jesus was actually the son of Joseph.

LEGION POST DEVICE ADDS CHARTER IS REVOKED TO POWER OF VIOLET RAY

Clinton Body Punished for Refusal to Reinstall Duane

Following a long debate in the executive committee of the American Legion revoked the charter of the James E. Kirby Post at Clinton, for violation of national and State constitutions of the organization and conduct not in the best interests of the American Legion.

This action, taken by a 6 to 5 vote, thus ends a six months controversy which resulted from the alleged suspension of James T. Duane, former department commander, from membership in the Kirby Post for alleged remarks concerning three post members. At a meeting December 27 last year Duane was ordered reinstated and completely exonerated.

Despite several orders to reinstate Duane in good standing in the Kirby Post, its officers ignored the department executive committee's order, contending that such an ultimatum was illegal and offered several reasons for refusing to abide by such a ruling.

Jersey Quartz Invention Improves Treatment of Tuberculosis, Rickets, Hay Fever

Recently N. J. May 23.—Great advancement in the use of the ultra-violet ray has been made possible by the invention of a small device by the Hanovia Chemical & Manufacturing Company. It was announced today.

The new device, like other instruments used in connection with ultra-violet rays, is fashioned of fused quartz and is designed to exclude the emission of all but the most potent rays from the generating lamp.

In announcing the invention, F. W. Robinson, chemist in charge of the work, said that it would increase the power and efficiency of the ray and make it even more valuable in the treatment of tuberculosis, rickets, hay fever, asthma and all other diseases in which the quartz lamp is used.

"This discovery, upon which my associate, Dr. W. T. Anderson and myself have been working for some time, has been frequently declared impossible of achievement," said Robinson. "It always has been easy to exclude light rays with short wave length, but the very opposite has never before been accomplished in transmitting a high percentage of certain small groups of short wave lengths in the ultra-violet field."

fused quartz vessel and by combining it with certain glasses of known transmission, we have succeeded in transmitting a high percentage of certain small groups of short wave lengths in the ultra-violet field."

$100 BONUS TO YEOMEN (F) WON SENATE FAVOR

Bill Passed to Third Reading; Bridgewater Custodial Wall Is Barred in the Report

The Senate today passed the third reading of the bill granting the $100 bonus to Yeomen (F) who served during the World War.

Senator Olsen S. Draper of Hope, Idaho, supporting the bill, said the Federal government recognizes every person who served in the military or naval forces, and this state should not discriminate. Senator Walter E. McLean of Fall River stated he had changed his mind and now in support of the bill.

The Senate Committee on Ways and Means reported tonight not to pass on the bill for the construction of a custodial wall at the Bridgewater state farm, where it was proposed to build a new state prison. The report will be in the order of the day on Monday.

Senator McLean moved to substitute the bill granting eight hours in street railway employees for the resolve adopted Wednesday calling for an investigation of the action by the Department of Public Utilities. He then withdrew the motion and announced he would move to substitute at the next reading.

CARMEN ASKED TO ACCEPT WAGE CUT

Reduction of 5 Cents an Hour Sought by Elevated Officials

Members of the Boston Street Carriers' Union have been asked to accept a reduction in wages of five cents an hour. Under the present agreement, which expires on July 1, the blue uniform men are paid a maximum of 75 cents an hour for a regular day of eight hours. The proposed reduction was asked by a vote of the board of trustees, and made known to the members of the union at their meetings at Loring Hall and through a communication received from General Manager Edward Fane.

Under the terms of the agreement, both sides have the right to make known in writing any proposed change they desire 60 days prior to the expiration of the existing agreement, July 1. The action of the trustees closely follows recent demands made by the union for a new maximum of 85 cents an hour.

Bridgewater, Ct., May 23.—Hearing the present taxation system of the country as the result of political expediency and a denunciation from the constitutional government set up by our forefathers, Senator George Moses of New Hampshire, called on members of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, at their annual banquet, to give their vote and influence to remove from office Congressmen who "foolishly" accede to the "corrupting provisions" of the existing constitution.

WIFE CRIES SHE DIDN'T ASK HUBBY TO WED HER

Mrs. Estelle Hart and Brother

Madison woman who is suing her brother for divorce and children, who testified to alleged cruelty against his sister on the part of Hart.

Mrs. Estelle Hart of Madison, who is suing her brother Joseph A. Hart, Madison juries has served notice on her divorce, alleging cruelty, promiscuous use of clothes a week, according to her husband.

He testified before Civil Justice Hall in Madison divorce court.

"Do you mean to say your wife purchased the suits a year?" asked the court.

"She did," answered Hart.

This testimony came after Hart denied that he had purchased gifts for a Mrs. Irene Gienough since his marriage. A divorcee in Madison, which his wife referred to as one of the gifts, was purchased before his marriage, he said.

Charles T. Skinner, brother of Mrs. Hart, and the respondent in an alienation of affections suit brought against him by Mrs. Hart, was an interested spectator in the courtroom and was called as a witness by Mrs. Hart. He testified to some of the alleged cruelty against his sister.

While Mrs. Hart was on the stand, facing a rapid-fire cross-examination by the hands of Attorney Pagano, the lawyer asked:

"You asked Hart to marry you, didn't you?"

Mrs. Hart shouted back: "I didn't. I didn't."

She shouted so loudly and repeated the words so many times that Judge Hall was forced to caution her to lower her voice.

During the time she was being questioned about financial affairs Judge Hall asked: "You don't think you were marrying a gold mine did you?"

After answering "no."

"I should say so," she said, "I should say so."

She said she was married to a man who was a gold mine.

FIREBUG, SLAYER OF SIX, WILL DIE IN CHAIR

Hating Father-in-Law, W. S. Ford Destroyed Entire Family by Fire

New York, May 23.—William S. Ford, the eddy motive, understood man who has been on trial all week in Brooklyn for setting fire to a Bensonhurst house and burning to death six sleeping persons, was found guilty of murder in the first degree. He will be sentenced May 25.

The penalty is death. Ford followed the procedure in the Brooklyn prison case in Newark, and put to use thereafter by Walter S. Ward and the Vetter when they were faced with the charge of murder. He offered no defense.

He identified his home on the uncertain structure of the States case, in this instance, a structure that proved almost insurmountable.

OUT LESS THAN HOUR.

The jury, which retired to deliberate on Ford's guilt or innocence at 4:40 o'clock, returned with its verdict at 5:35.

Ford appeared above the sunken staircase that leads to the room where six persons were killed about this same moment. His little house, long, narrow and seemed as steady as any ever was.

The presiding judge entered, Sir, from Court Justice Fisher. Any second now and he might have been a father of a family.

A flicker of a smile or maybe a look of defiance, however, moved under the tight surface skin of Ford's sharp-featured face. He followed with these public eyes.

DISTILLER HELD IN $1,800,000 BOOZE PLOT

Remus, Bootlegger King; His Wife and 14 Others
Also Indicted

St. Louis, May 23.—Lem Motlow, wealthy distiller of Lynchburg, Tenn., Thomas A. Heffernan, president and treasurer of the J. J. Dahlman, vice-president of the J. J. Dahlman Distilling Company, are included among the seventeen persons indicted for the theft of $1,800,000 of whiskey from J. J. Dahlman's bonded warehouse last summer.

Motlow, who is now under an indictment for the murder of C. N. Pullis, a Pullman car conductor, was formerly the owner of the distillery. Others named in the indictment include George Remus, nationally known bootlegger, who is now in the Federal prison at Atlanta, his wife, Mrs. Imogene Remus, Edward Menninger, an automobile salesman, William Mueller, a night watchman in the employ of Mrs. Remus in Cincinnati, and William J. Kinney, Deputy Revenue Collector in St. Louis.

The indictment charges conspiracy to violate the Volstead Act in the sale and purchase of capital stock of the distillery and warehouse certificates covering 331 barrels of what key and the withdrawal and sale of 330 barrels.

It charges that Motlow and three others transferred to agents of the bureau, his wife and others, all of the capital stock and certificates for the amount of $1,800,000.

BARTLETT HITS AT PROBERS IN OIL SCANDAL

Opening the Vermont G. O. P. Convention, Charges 'Crooks, Jailbirds' Testified in Inquiry

Montpelier, Vt., May 23.—"Have you or have you not confidence in Calvin Coolidge?"

This will be the predominating issue in the next presidential election, John H. Bartlett, Vermont's Assistant Postmaster General and former Governor of New Hampshire, declared in his keynote speech opening the Vermont G. O. P. State Republican Convention here today. Bitterly denouncing the investigations of Republican Cabinet officers instigated by the Democrats, Bartlett declared these methods had merely served to emphasize the virtues of the President.

The speaker declared that the leaders of the opposite party have created a situation which has literally "forced" the nomination of the one man in the Republican Party. "A futile attempt has been made to place a man in the White House who is not a Republican in office and not a Democrat in office," Bartlett said. "This burst of fury grew out of one of those unfortunate and tragic incidents in history which sometimes occur."

"CONDUCT CONDEMNED." "The one central figure, concerning whose conduct the country has been shocked, charged to be a New Mexico Republican, holding a responsible position as adviser to the President. However much guilt may finally be found to attach to him, his conduct stands condemned."

But, from that event on, the label of events at Washington became as blurred with politics that the people at large have very little idea of the true state of affairs. It has been the policy of our opponents in Congress to control the investigation in such a way as to secure a dirty headline daily."

Bartlett charged the Democrats with having ventured "the truth" on the oil scandal, and that the "crooks, jailbirds and dead" were the result.

"The speaker charged that the law permitting lease of government oil lands was passed by a Democratic administration. Bartlett defended Secretary of the Navy Denby and Attorney General Daugherty, declaring the former had been "sacrificed" in the oil scandal, and that the latter is a "fighting Scotsman with not a crooked vein in his body, not a false word on his tongue."

"Colonel Forbes," said Bartlett, "fell down on his job at the head of the Veterans' Bureau, but General Hines, a fine soldier and a good Republican, picked up the battle and is going over the top in a good way."

VIEW ON TAXATION.

"Regarding taxation he said: "Your President had the vision to see that unless the American government abandoned its war taxes and got back to honest living in government, business would be ruined and financial chaos reign."

"There still remains very largely before the American people at this hour, as the great question to be determined, whether the President is right in the course which he has inaugurated for his country or whether the temporary majority in Congress is right in the course which they have made for their country."

"It looks very much now as if this question would have to be submitted to the greatest jury in the world—the whole American people."

VISITING JUDGES

BILL IS PUT OVER

There is no class in the State that has such a stranglehold on the Legislature as Judges. Representative Martin Hays of Brighton declared in debate in the House today.

He was speaking on his motion to amend the Senate bill for the visitation of State penal and corrective institutions by judges of district courts by striking out the provision for extra pay, but leaving payment of their expenses of visitation.

On motion of Representative Sawyer the bill was referred to the next session after Mr. Hays had withdrawn his motion.

PRESBYTERIANS SEE OUSTING OF FOSDICK

New York Church Expected to Fight; Rout of Modernists

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 23.—

The ousting of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick from the Presbyterian church in New York City is a complete rout of modernism in the church, was predicted today, following the announcement that Dr. Charles H. MacCartney, moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, had named ultra-fundamentalists to the chairmanship of the important church committee.

New Yorkers said they would not support the MacCartney also would fight the New York Presbytery. They did not believe Fosdick's ousting would be a victory for the church, which would seek to withdraw from the Presbyterian church altogether is strong. Purchases Abroad for Marine Corps Not Contemplated, He Declares

Washington, May 23.—Secretary Wilbur in a letter to Senator Walsh of Massachusetts today declared no contracts for purchases abroad of cotton kakis cloth for the Marine Corps had been recently made and none is in contemplation.

Previously he had been made by New England agents, such as Phillips and Senator Walsh asked the Secretary for information. The Secretary said a purchase of kakis cloth had been made under a contract signed in July, 1922, with an English firm when the navy, after a year's delay, obtained only one lot

CLEARS GREENE OF INTENT TO DEFRAUD

Master's Report, Filed in Supreme Court, Exonerates Prime of Brokerage House

Story of the common stock in the Greene Company.

"Up to this time," says the report, "Greene had paid nothing and rendered no account to either party."

The promise he had made in the contract with Commercial had been based on the "Greene Company" performance. Yet Greene himself had $99,838.99 value of stock in the $12,500 par value of the common stock, and complete voting control of both.

The Greene Company organized and trained a large and remarkably efficient sales force. By June, 1923, it comprised 200 offices and 2,000 salesmen, and had sold more than $5,000,000 of preferred stock. The stock was sold in units called "blocks," consisting of two shares of preferred stock and one of common, the common stock being donated to Greene. The Greene Company's commission for selling varied from $12.25 a block to $47.50. The commission was divided by the Greene Company 10 to the salesman, $5 to the local sales manager, $1.50 to the local superintendent, 11 to the "district sales" and 11 to the "district superintendent."

Thousands subscribed.

Salesmen were uniformly instructed to tell the truth, and with some exceptions did so to the best of their ability and information. Their information was not comprehensive, however, and the master finds that the statements of persons subscribed for stock in these companies without such a fair disclosure of the nature, profits and stock ownership of Greene and the "Greene Company" was essential to an intelligent opinion on the wisdom of such subscription.

There was a general spirit of exaggeration of future prospects. "All hands," says the master, "painted the future with lurid colors."

"Once salesmen now became crusaders in a great movement to liberate the poor and unfortunate from economic slavery. The organs of the 'Greene Company' were described as but a step in the evolution of a plan to provide wealth and comfort for the working classes. This man was widely advertised as the 'Greenie' idea."

The weekly magazine was filled

Bonus Measure Means More Prosperity, Edwards Says

CONGRATULATIONS. The country is grateful. The government has kept faith with promises. The sentiment in the hearts of the men has been received. We have conducted honorable campaign. Motives of those in opposition have not been impugned. I believe result will be vital to the future of the family and property stability of this country. Our record for disabled is glorious. That continues to be our first duty with other principles of our preamble. Now all veterans should join and give to their country the benefit of the united voice of service. National executive committee rule priority in hotel accommodations for delegates and alternates, seating in Convention Hall and place in parade will be based on percentage of membership June 15 this year compared with highest membership any year previously. Pay up and get credit and put Massachusetts No. 1, where we belong.—Telegram sent by Major-General Edwards, department Legion commander, from Indianapolis, where he is attending a convention of department Legion commanders, to Vice-Commander Francis J. Good, felicitating him on the passage of the soldiers' bonus bill.

looked back upon the stock, and the "money trust" and the great exactions from the common people, who shared for it. Greene was given to the stock who had forced the money market to the limit and was about to distribute the ill-gotten gains among the deserving poor. Wall Street was denounced and Greene was praised with equal extravagance.

DELIBERATE DECEPTION.

In order to carry out, either deception was practiced, the master finds. False statements were made, the master finds. Money invested in stock offered for sale by Greene Company. The value of blocks was increased to $140 and later to $180, and the public was told that the value of the company had increased and its stock was selling at a higher rate where in fact the stock had not increased in value, and all the increase in price was to the Greene Company.

Two dividends were declared on the common stock at a time when good business judgment would not have sanctioned them, solely to give a false impression of the company's prosperity and to increase sales. The first dividend of $25,000 was paid $19,998.99 to Greene, $1.50 to the salesmen, the second all to Greene, as trustee.

He told the directors before the dividends were declared that he would return to the treasury all the money he received and did in fact return $15,122.37; there was no public disclosure of his promise or of the actual return of the money.

The sales campaign was so successful that it became necessary to have more stock to sell, and Greene formed the Mutual Finance Corporation, with an authorized capital of $100,000, later increased to nearly $1,000,000. It was closely similar to the Commercial in all respects, and its stock was sold and issued in the same manner.

HAD VOTING CONTROL.

All the common stock in both finance corporations, with the exception of six incorporators' shares, was issued to Greene for his agreement to sell the preferred stock. He has always had complete voting control of both corporations, and up to July, 1923, retained that control. He and every important officer of management, the boards of directors exercising no independent judgment.

In less than two years he personally received about $22,000 from the sale of his stock. The master finds that the common stock was issued to him without the consideration required by law, and that his profits were secret promoter's profits.

From the sale of his preferred stock the Commercial Finance Corporation received $219,238, and the Greene Company received $244,774.75 in commissions. On partially paid subscriptions the Commercial received $125,565 and the Greene Company $244,774.75.

The Mutual Finance Corporation similarly received $242,215 in all and the Greene Company $1,077,665.75 on partially paid subscriptions. The Mutual received $28,832 and the Greene Company $452,811.

PROSPERITY AT FIRST.

For a time both Commercial and Mutual were prosperous. Their business consisted chiefly of lending money upon automobiles. Eventually, however, the officers became careless in the handling of affairs. Loans were made without adequate security, sometimes without any security. Large sums in particular were advanced to the Massachusetts Motors Company, which went into bankruptcy.

General business conditions, especially in the automobile line, became

MAN VANISHES AFTER LEAVING SISTER'S HOME

Police Asked to Locate Patrick Kennedy; Finance Is Prostrated

Fear that the missing sweetheart of her government had met with foul play prompted Mrs. Fred H. Love, widow, to appeal to Boston police to aid her in finding Patrick J. Kennedy, 35-year-old, who disappeared from his sister's home at No. 14 Brack-street, Brighton, last Sunday night.

Patrick J. Kennedy

Miss Annie Jordan, fiancée of the missing man, and governess of Mrs. Loveland, is present with grief at the Rutland road home of her employer. They were to be married June 17.

Kennedy, who is a clerk in a downtown store, left the home of his sister, Mrs. E. O. Jones, No. 11 Brackett street, Brighton, shortly before midnight to take a car to his room at No. 125 West Franklin street. He has not been seen since.

When her sweetheart failed to appear, Miss Jordan became ill. It was her condition that led Mrs. Loveland to appeal to the Boston police to search for the missing man.

"I am convinced that Patrick had been kidnapped," Mrs. Jones declared. "The case of the missing man, who was left here Sunday night, has been a large part of talk in his office. And as he was always careless of the way he displayed money in public, it is a chance that he showed it to the wrong party. There is no reason to believe that he went away on his own accord. He was a home-loving man of a man, and never complained."

Read What This Famous Scientist Says about Coffee

Professor SAMUEL C. PRESCOTT, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, after three years' scientific research, says Coffee gives comfort and inspiration and is the servant of civilization

"It may be stated that after weighing the evidence, a dispassionate evaluation of the data so comprehensively surveyed has led to no alarming conclusions that Coffee is an injurious beverage for the great majority of adults, but, on the contrary, that the history of human experience, as well as the results of scientific experimentation, point to the fact that Coffee is a beverage which, properly prepared and rightly used, gives comfort and inspiration, augments mental and physical activity, and may be regarded as the servant rather than the destroyer of civilization."

This statement, coming from such an unquestioned scientific authority, will be a source of satisfaction and relief to every true lover of Coffee and establishes the fact that Coffee is a wholesome drink for the overwhelming majority of adults.

SHOTS FIRED AT VISITOR TO FIERY CROSS

Claremont, N. H., Man Is Then Knocked Unconscious With Club

Claremont, N. H., May 22.—Charles W. Wagoner, a man who came near being killed by a mob of Klansmen when he was visiting the town of Claremont, N. H., was today taken to the hospital for treatment of his injuries.

The cross was anchored on top of the rock and Wagoner started climbing up the rock to see what it was all about.

Just as he had reached the top of the rock two shots were fired so close to Wagoner that he dropped to the foot of the rock in fright. The next minute he was rendered unconscious by a blow from a club.

Witness John Edmonds, four-tyman wandering about in a daze, said after the injury to the man had been dressed, he heard him say no one and heard no other voice of the mob.

N. H. Mayor of Rochester, then sought and declared the cross to be a threat to the town and that Wagoner was a victim of the mob.

The straw hat season opened in New Orleans the Saturday before Easter. We broke all records, selling more straw hats in our New Orleans store, than were ever sold in any one store in any one day, south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

The Straw Hat Season opened in Philadelphia May 3rd. We more than doubled our record in New Orleans and more than doubled the sales of any hat store in Philadelphia.

The following Saturday the Season opened in New York, and we covered Manhattan with "Pagodas." In every city from New Orleans to New York the "Pagoda" won in a walk.

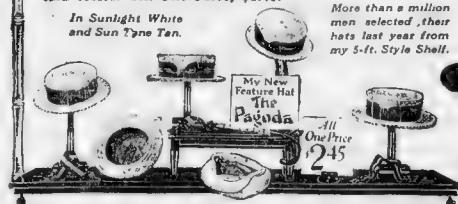

Breaking old records and making new World's records year after year, doesn't just happen. This new hand twisted, pebble knot, Imported Chinese Braid, shown for the first time in my new Feature Hat, is the Style Sensation of the Season!

We searched the markets of the world and discovered this new braid in a little village in the interior of China. It is distinct and different without being a freak or a fad. It won't chip or peel and has no saw-teeth to break off.

Camping Season Draws Near

Good Time to Consider the Boy Scouts, Who Substitute Healthful Hobbies for the Freightyard and the Street Corner

Mr. Charles E. Cotting asks us to call attention here to the fact that this is Boy Scout Week. We are glad to do so, remembering, as we do, that the Boy Scouts of America were organized to give boys something interesting and useful to think about and do in their leisure hours; to develop in them character, courtesy, generosity, patriotism and ambition, and to teach them to be trustworthy, resourceful, brave and useful citizens.

The Boy Scout organization is the largest boys' club in the world.

Its motto is, "Be prepared"; its slogan, "Do a good turn daily." It is an organization for American boys of every race, creed and social condition.

"If your boy is of suitable age," Dr. Frank Crane wrote of the movement several years ago, "you should let him join."

"I do not say you should make him join. "All healthy boys are as eager to get into THIS club as a monkey is eager to get sugar."

Small wonder that Dad, as he contemplates the Boy Scouts and recalls his own scoutless boyhood, is almost envious. Almost, but not really envious, for every Dad is truly interested in the welfare and happiness of boys.

The Boston Council, Boy Scouts of America, is composed of adult citizens who give FREELY of their time and attention to guide the work of the numerous troops in Boston, Brookline, Milton, Dedham and Westwood.

Scoutmasters serve WITHOUT PAY. There are, however, as Mr. Cotting points out, expenses which have to be met and undoubtedly there are many persons able and willing to contribute to a cause so influential and worthy.

This is an excellent week to "Be prepared." Mr. Cotting, chairman of the finance committee, may be addressed at No. 15 Exchange street. The telephone is Congress 4964. "Do a good turn today."

Do Boxing, Prize Fighting Really Create Heroes?

If Not, Why Are They Legalized, Why Are They Encouraged in the Army and Navy? Tad's Opinion

When you criticize prizefighting, the false ideals that it sets before young men, the crowds of criminals that it gathers, the bribery and corruption among public officials that go with it, you are asked, "WHAT would you interfere with the manly sport? Don't you realize that this nation may be at war some time, and it will need HEROES?"

stand punishment; don't you realize that if you stop prizefighting you DISCOURAGE VALOR, and that men will forget how to defend themselves and how to stand punishment?"

That sounds convincing to a microcephalic idiot? But what about the facts? Suppose they show the man that knows the most about prizefighting running away the fastest when war comes?

Suppose the facts show that of all classes of citizens in the United States, from clergymen to dog catchers, the prizefighter, the highly trained, most able boxer, was the one that most carefully kept away from the war, hiding himself in a training camp as a "boxing instructor" or suddenly developing weak arches of the feet.

T. A. Dorgan, who has watched and studied sports and sporting men all his life, and whose policies and articles signed "Tad" are known to millions all over the United States, knows about "fighters."

Here is what Tad has to say, giving credit to the one white black bird, the prizefighter, who did take an interest in the war. The Munroe that Tad refers to is Jack Munroe, who once fought James J. Jeffries and was beaten.

"Munroe was a REAL fighter. He was no newspaper warrior. When the time came for volunteers in the trenches, Jack Munroe was one of the first to leave Ely Lake City, Ontario, and join the Princess Pals."

"He fought in the front line trenches and came back with a withering right arm caused by a German bullet. "Most of America's great ring warriors were so far away from German bullets that a letter would hardly have reached them. "You read in the papers about how brave the soldiers, their terrific punches, their lion hearts; yet you could have met the leading American fighters who left these shores to fight in a telephone booth and it wouldn't have been crowded."

What becomes of the statement that boxing develops MANLY COURAGE and that prizefighting is necessary to keep up from becoming effeminate, unfit for war?

What connection is there between standing up in a ring, without any danger of serious harm, and exchanging foolish blows with well-padded gloves, and going up against the sharp end of a bayonet or leaving the trenches in the darkness, under shell fire, exposed to poison gas?

His Majesty Signs

Bootleggers Don't Object

His Majesty King George has graciously signed the American liquor treaty, permitting this country to seize run pirates anywhere within twelve miles of our shore. That's friendly, but it won't interfere with real liquor dealers from across the ocean, or with enterprising American bootleggers.

Here is the story of one bootlegger, who is a hired man, not the owner. He was formerly a sailor on the lakes. "My boat can make fifty-five miles an hour. I get $300 a day salary, more or less, to make in a month. Every man on the boat with me gets $50 a day. We go out twenty-two miles for our load, and come in at about 2 or 3 in the morning with all our lights out."

"I have three engines in the boat, two Fiat and a Liberty motor. The other night my propeller got fouled in a heavy rope, and while I was trying to fix things I was almost run down by one of the government patrol boats. I showed my credentials, whereupon the agent in charge apologized, whistled three times and got a tug to haul me in."

As you see, bootlegging is reduced to a science, almost to an industrial pursuit, entitled to bank credit; thanks to bribery. The fact that it doesn't pay any tax, income or otherwise, makes it all the more profitable.

Family Needs Clothes My father is out of work, and my mother is almost sick. There are five of us children, two boys, thirteen and ten, and three girls, fourteen, eight and three. We all need clothing pretty badly. I am to graduate next June and haven't a thing to wear, but I guess the other need clothes worse than I do. My mother takes a size 42 or 44.

Little Sick Girl in Need Dear Paper: Will you ask someone to help me? My mother has been sick and my father is dead. I have spine trouble, and it aches so I cannot go to school any more. I sit and cry, and it helps a little, so I need some pieces of cloth. I got two bundles of cloth, one from my mother and one from my father. But I have used them all up. I need some more, size 10 or 12 or anything I can wear. I am not very big, for I don't grow. I want size 6. Will you ask for a hat? I will now stop, as my back aches. RITA L.

Offers Suit Editor Helping Hand: Would be pleased to help in your good work. Have a discarded suit, size 32, and neck tie that I will send to address you and the name of the person to whom I want it. I will now stop, as my back aches. RITA L.

Young Mother of Twins Editor Helping Hand: I am a young married woman with twins eight weeks old. My husband is working, and we have enough to eat, as I am not as badly off as some poor people who write in, yet my husband is young, he makes very little money.

Editor Helping Hand: I have a large quantity of old linen, such as old collars, table cloths and napkins, etc. Some time ago there was a woman who wrote to the Helping Hand asking for each old cloth because she was sick. I shall be glad to send these to her, or to anyone else you suggest. J. L. F.

Thank you. You have sent the address of Mrs. J. F. to an aged woman with infirmities of the eyes, who asked for just what you offer.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON PLAYING A PART

By DR. FRANK CRANE

WHEN Mary Garden was asked whether or not it is necessary for an actress to know personally any of the experiences of the characters she is depicting on the stage, she replied: "Most decidedly not!"

Because she played the character of Salome it was absurd, she said, to imagine that she must have undergone the weird experiences which Salome is supposed to have had.

"Do you think that an Othello must be a murderer in real life before he can kill Desdemona effectively on the stage?" she asked. "Or that the late Bernhard ever actually went through the experiences, let us say, of her Theatre?"

The position taken by the actress on this question is entirely sound. It is, to use a Hibernianism, "the truth, the whole truth, and more than the truth."

Because not only is it not necessary for an actor personally to have had the experiences in life which he portrays upon the stage, but, as a rule, it is much better for him not to have had them.

The same sort of statement may be made of the novelist or the painter.

The good artist of any kind is a creative genius. He gets his stuff not from his imagination, not from his experience or his observation.

"Very often we hear one say: 'I have had the most amazing things happen to me. If I were to write them down they would surpass any work of fiction.'"

They would not. Any work of creative genius is first-class and interesting, not because of what its author has seen and heard or felt, but because of what he can imagine.

Sometimes we meet a man who has gone through the most thrilling escapades; and like as not his telling of them is as dull as ditch water.

The adventures of Captain Blood that came, brand new, out of Raphael Sabatini's imagination, are far better art and a deal more interesting than the autobiography of any pirate or sea captain.

The best actors in the world are little children. With them it is all pure play. They haven't any experience at all. Their roles are of imagination all the compact. And a nine-year-old girl can give you a better imitation of a Duchess or a Queen than any fifty-year-old lady who is actually engaged in the business of Dukeship and Queenship.

Anyone who simply portrays what he has experienced is drawing only upon his memory; but one who portrays what he has never experienced is using his imagination.

And imagination is an artist; Memory is an artisan.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON HOT AND COLD

By Garrett P. Serviss, Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

ONE of the things which leads us to get into these attempts to convey a little information that is ordinarily thought mistakenly supposed to be generally acquired is school or college. The scientific papers reveal in my correspondence between the literary and the scientific attainments of the people who have received what is called a "good education." They reveal a lack of technical knowledge, but only of what pertains to some of the things which are the basis of nature. What I mean is well illustrated by the tropics.

Please settle this argument: A man that perpendicular stripes of the sun's rays in the equator's climate hot, and that the sun's rays in the tropics are on account of the earth's great rotating velocity at the equator. But I have been told by one of the men with the earth and the sun.

A has the right idea, having correctly understood what truth and the sun have told him. But where did "it" derive his very old notion about friction with the heavens? That is a question of the more puzzling by the fact that a considerable number of persons seem to entertain a same curious idea concerning the height of the heat derived from the sun's rays.

Have they reasoned it out for themselves, or has some "aesthetic" notion of the "beauty" of the school been teaching them? Now let us look at the facts. At the equator, and at far south and north of it, the tropical sun, which runs with such velocity, one on each side of the equator, at a distance of about 22 1/2 degrees, the sun at noon is at the latitude of Philadelphia, or of central Illinois, at the beginning of the second week of August; and for the greater part of the time it is much nearer.

At certain times it actually reaches the overhead position twice every year at the equator, and once every year at the tropic circle. In its annual march it swings back and forth 23 1/2 degrees on each side of the equator. At the equator the sun is at the zenith, and the rays are relatively small even within the tropics.

Comparing these conditions with those that prevail in our latitudes, and having accepted the effect of a low inclination of the sun's rays in reducing the temperature, we need look no further to find, as "A" says, the main reason for the relatively great heat of the equatorial or tropical climate.

But I have been told by one of the men with the earth and the sun. A has the right idea, having correctly understood what truth and the sun have told him. But where did "it" derive his very old notion about friction with the heavens?
